Public Access Defibrillation Program

PAD

What you need to know about “Automatic External Defibrillators” (AED):

- Basic Life Support is a part of CPR which also includes defibrillation.
- Early defibrillation with an automated external defibrillator (AED) has proven benefit.
- A guideline principle of early defibrillation is that the first person to arrive at the scene of a cardiac arrest should have a defibrillator.
- This principle is now internationally accepted.
- AEDs are rapidly becoming the standard of care in cardiac arrest.
- It is expected that AED’s will be as commonplace as fire extinguishers in the near future
- Laws alone can’t save lives. It takes your innovation, dedication and action to start an AED program.
