

Trustee Tom Hodges

Tom Hodges is a community volunteer, small business owner, and attorney who brings more than 15 years of legal, public administration, and civic experience to the Anderson Township Board of Trustees. A long-time advocate for responsible government and strong neighborhoods, one of his goals for his term as trustee is to see that Anderson Township remains a vibrant, welcoming, and forward-looking community for all residents.

Hodges is the founder and managing attorney of J. Thomas Hodges & Associates, a Cincinnati-based law firm focused on real estate, small business and local government matters. Through his legal practice, he has served as counsel to numerous local organizations, property owners and community groups, helping guide complex projects while prioritizing transparency, fiscal responsibility, and long-term community benefit.

A primary goal as trustee is to listen to residents, strengthen community partnerships, and work collaboratively to build a positive future for Anderson Township.

Hodges holds a bachelor's degree, a juris doctor degree, and a master's of public administration. He's also undertaken extensive professional work in land use, economic development, and public-sector decision-making during his career.

Hodges and his wife, Patrice, are involved in local schools, youth programs and community events, including work with the Forest Hills Schools and Anderson Park District. He has previously served on the Boards of the Southwest Ohio Regional Transit Authority, Community Shares of Greater Cincinnati, the Charter Committee of Greater Cincinnati, and the Greater Cincinnati Energy Alliance.
